Save Time And Resources With Construction Cleaning Services

Save Time And Resources With Construction Cleaning Services

Construction project delays are no joke. In every industry, construction delays have big impacts especially on your bottom line. Delays can frustrate tenants, property managers and investors

When a crew tasked with door frame construction or roofing must shift resources to construction cleaning, the job can take twice as long — and be done only half as well. Use construction cleaning services to hasten the arrival of ribbon-cutting day.

Frequently Asked Questions

What is a rough or final construction cleaning?

Rough cleaning is done to remove large trash, debris and dust before the final painting, flooring or finishes are installed. A final clean sanitizes and cleans the entire space so the building is move-in ready.

Do I need construction cleaning before an inspection?

It's highly recommended to clean your facility before an inspection. This ensures safe access around work areas for inspectors and visitors.

What do I need to do to prepare for construction cleaning?

Safety is key. We recommend moving large and/or hazardous debris so the technicians can properly access and clean the work areas.

Cubicle & Partition Cleaning

A restorative deep office cleaning costs an average of 20 to 30 times less than a complete cubicle partition replacement. Protect your investment with cubicle and partition cleaning services.

Your Office Never Looked Better

Cubicle partitions wear down over time, collecting spilled coffee, splattered lunches, and daily grime. By properly maintaining the fabric inserts and rubber kick plates in your office cubicles and partitions, you prolong the life of panels and your investment in a spotless office environment.

Clean Method's cubicle and partition cleaning service includes:

- Cubicle fabric panel vacuuming
- Encapsulating stain spot treatment
- High pressure solution cleaning
- Pressurized vacuum solution extraction
- Rubber kick plate mark and stain removal

Make your office the envy of the industry.

Cubicle & Partition Cleaning

Scheduled Cubicle Cleaning Improves Results

Omitting cubicle and partition cleaning during routine office maintenance leads to more frequent and expensive restorative services and complete panel replacement. Instead choose scheduled partition cleaning.

- Routine removal of surface dust and debris
- Regular kick plate cleaning to remove shoe scuff marks
- As-needed surface spot treatment to prevent unsightly stains

Work with a proactive commercial cleaning services provider and catch surface spots before they become stains with a story.

Prevent Disease Spread With Cubicle & Partition Cleaning

As employees and facility tenants seek healthier, safer work environments, you can be part of the solution. Regular deep office cleaning of cubicles and partitions is key to creating a dust-free, germ-free environment.

- Reduce employee sick days
- Increase productivity and satisfaction
- Create a clean environment tenants respect

Commercial Floor & Carpet Cleaning Services

Commercial Floor and Carpet Cleaning FAQs

- Will floor and carpet cleaning services be disruptive to tenants or customers?

Our certified, uniformed floor and carpet cleaning technicians provide discrete, non-intrusive service. In the event our technicians do perform duties while tenants or customers are present, they do so professionally and are hired and trained to respect you and your facility's visitors.

- Can I schedule a specific time of day for facility cleanings?

Yes. Our floor and carpet cleaning technicians work on a schedule that accommodates the needs of your facility and its people. We work with you to find the right time and frequency, adjusting to your calendar and the needs of the employees, customers, or tenants you support.

- How often do you recommend floor or carpet cleaning to protect my investment?

The frequency of services will depend on the level of traffic through your facility. High-use areas like entryways or hallways often require more frequent care, especially during inclement weather. Call us today to discuss your specific needs and we can customize an appropriate maintenance schedule.
